It's a work in progress, but none the less i like it.

Would prefer a little more choice based interaction to balance out the gameplay.. In terms of difficulty, tedious 90% of the time and that feels generous. Overall it looks gorgeous the controls are ok but in many cases the animations feel klunky or sluggish. The difficulty comes mainly from platforming fails where you restart each room due to deaths. However the music is great and complements the theme nicely. Not worth the full price.. Just an old not so good multiplayer FPS. Game is pretty outdated, save your money.. Remind me of T.A.C.O.M.A

Which of the two titles came out first?. Lets get started...

Characters:

Star Breaker - In my opinion, she's just about as powerful as the campaign version of Tomomo. To counter this, Star Breaker can only choose win normals (though even if she could choose star normals, I would always do wins anyway) Her hyper sets 4 - 6 invisible traps that'll instantly reduce whoever steps on it's hp to one, minus the card setter. Another one of her plus sides is if you win you'll get the duelist achievement (if you don't have it already)

Sweet Breaker - Sweet Breaker has completely balanced stats (all zeros) and a recovery value of six, so she seems pretty terrible at first, but she'll gain +1 to all stats for every "reversed" card in her opponent's hand, which actually makes her pretty powerful if used right. Her hyper card permanently reverses all three of the other player's cards and replaces one of their cards; The downside to her hyper is that it costs 5x the number of all enemy cards.

Campaigns:

One of the features of this pack is that it features two new campaigns, with the Steam page saying that it expands the lore of the game, which I don't really think is true. While the two new campaigns may expand the lore of Star Breaker and Sweet Breaker (if you consider 100% Orange Juice cannon that is), it doesn't really expand on the world Tomomo created.

Excluding the two breakers, 70% of the campaign's levels are filled with mostly DLC and bonus characters. Sweet Breaker's campaign in particular is incredibly difficult as Tomomo is in literally every level, while Star Breaker's campaign is about the same difficulty as the normal campaigns (if you normally go for wins that is)

It's fun and looks nice.

Took me about an hour and a half to complete so I'd say buy in a sale or something and it's a good length for the price. Very relaxing and I like plants ;). E.Wolf's +5

1. If you like spreadsheets, you will enjoy this game. If you dislike spreadsheets, you will be bored.
2. There is an incredible amount of customization. From the playbook to each player's stats, everything can be edited to make the game however you want it.
3. There is also an incredible amount of detail. Each player has a variety of stats beyond what is offered in games like Madden NFL. Player performance changes their stats and benching players can both upset them and reduce their stats. The teams actually feel like teams instead of lists of individual players.
4. With this being a spreadsheet-focused game, there is a plethora of statistics available to analyze. This is extremely useful for determining what your team needs to succeed.
5. The off-season is incredibly detailed and realistic. I enjoyed the off-season more than the season due to the incredible customization and the hope for success next season.. Thrilling gameplay, awesome story, better than FNaF in so many ways!. That's amazing. How did this garbage even get into my steam account?. HYPER SUPER MEGA FUN!. I did resent the game at first mostly because I expected a Dungeon Keeper reboot. But after having a few hours on it and opened my mind, it is a really good game if you like something along the lines of base building and micromanaging. Think of the game more like Rollercoaster Tycoon and you just might agree.... For now the game is barebone, but playable and actually fun. It even looks like the dev is not only listening to gamers, but actually making changes in a very quick time. I tried the game for the first time about 4 days ago, when i bought it and i died very quickly in my fist fight. It was just a quick look from me, before going to sleep. Then i tried the game again yesterday, and found out it made serious changes in many things and actually was for me more enjoyable.

I can recommend the game it's fun and challenging, but do understand it has a long way to completion. The price for now with the 40% discount is awesome, but i would say that the full price is ok as well, but it's very close to the roof, that i think this game can be worth.

If you want you can watch first 30 or so minutes of a gameplay in video i made.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ChuSQKC_ZFA. A good improvement over dbc 17 ,which was below par .Definitely worth a buy if you are a cricket fan.. Basically a more modern, more polished take on something like Escape Velocity: Nova where you buy a ship, outfit it with whatever you want, go trading, mining, and taking missions. It's a little bit bare bones right now, but the groundwork is solid and developer has been actively working on it and is very responsive to community.
